The practice of guided reading is based on the belief that the optimal learning for a reader occurs when they are assisted by an educator, or expert 'other', to read and understand a text with clear but limited guidance. Guided reading allows students to practise and consolidate effective reading strategies.

This section became essentially 'guided reading'. It's important to remember that like in any lesson, some groups of children need working with. Whole class reading isn't just 'whole class input' and we shouldn't throw the baby out with the bathwater and decide that because we're switching to whole class reading, working with a group isn't necessary, it almost certainly is ...
